

UNESCO

By Mattia Castiglioni 2B

UNESCO means United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, it was formed in 1945 after World War II. The war caused a lot of destruction in Europe and UNESCO concentrated on rebuilding schools, libraries, and museums. Today UNESCO supports efforts to improve education more generally. It's also involved in efforts to protect the natural environment and humanity's common cultural heritage.

Stonehenge

Stonehenge is a Neolithic site in Amesbury, in England. It dates back to the Neolithic era. Today It's the most famous group of megaliths in the world. In the past, it was probably an astronomical observatory.

